City Council Blasts Coastal Commission

The Seaside City Council landed on the Central Coast Conservation Commission with all ten feet last Thursday night when the councilmen unanimously adopted a resolution chastising the commission for "overstepping their authority" when that commission wrote a letter to the Army requesting information related to what the Army intends to do to alleviate problems of housing, transportation and environmental protection when the Seventh Division arrives at Ft. Ord.

Seaside Mayor B.J. Dolan, Jr. proposed a resolution which in effect reminded the coastal unit of its duties and responsibilities under the Act adopted by the people of California in 1972 known as Proposition 20. Dolan stated that it was his understanding that the commissions's duties were clearly defined in that they pertained to coastal environment prospection, and does not include such matters as "low-cost housing and transportation of servicemen's families to and from work."

Dolan further contended that the commission was "way out of its jurisdiction when it forwarded the letter to the Army. He said that he didn't feel it advisable that anybody should "rock the boat," and that since the Army as well as Congress are looking for ways to curtail expenses and close more bases, this type of action may serve as a notice that the Division is not wated or that the local communities are unable to absorb such an increase in population.

Dolan said that those problems alluded to in the commissions letter were the responsibilities of local government, and that they should be solved by local government.

The text of the resolution is as follows:

Resolution of the Seaside City Council
Disavowing Action of Central Coast Regional Commission

WHEREAS the Central Coast Regional Commission has written a memorandum to Army officials requesting information concerning transportation, low-rent housing and other concerns related to the influx of army personnel assigned to the 7th Infantry Division; and

WHEREAS, the duties and responsibilities of the Commission clearly spells out its zone of influence; and

WHEREAS, this decision of the Commission to overstep its bounds and take on the responsibilities of local government without consulting local governmental officials violates the intent of the people who enacted Proposition 20, and

WHEREAS, the letter pretends to speak for local government in and around Ft. Ord when it fact it is in direct conflict with the "home rule" principle so well established throughout California by the League of California Cities.

Now therefore be it resolved that the City Council of the City of Seaside asks the Commission to reconsider the action taken by the Central Coast Regional Commission insofar as it impinges on its right to "home rule;" and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Council reprimands the Commission for its direct interference with local government and its duties and functions and concerns; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that the Seadide City Council respectfully requests that the Commission refrains from overstepping its authority in the future and confine itself to promulgating policies which relate to its responsibilities, protection of the environment along the California coast; and

BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a copy of this resolution be forwarded to all who received a copy of the letter from the Commission.

Veterans Upward Bound At MPC

A new and innovative instructional program, sponsored by MPC called Veterans Upward Bound has started registering students for its Spring 75 Cycle which will start next February 9. Upward Bound classes include communication and math skills development, group counseling, and electives for young men and women veterans who are looking for an educational program that matches their particular background and personal experience.

Upward Bound is demanding, both in terms of time and effort. Students are required to participate in the program 25 hours per week, if they want to be considered full-time. The 25 hours are divided among classes, counseling, tutoring, and individual projects. By the time a student has completed the 16 week program he will have had the opportunity to improve his academic skills, gain insight into a wide variety of subject areas, and reach decisions concerning his future educational plans. The program is also approved for veteran's benefits.

If you're getting the impression that Veterans Upward Bound Program is all work, it's not. There's a strong social component. Intereaction among all people in the program is extremely important, and various kinds of group activities are planned -- both educational and entertaining. All of the activities are not planned; the program's not a summer camp. Many activities occur almost spontaneously with little or no planning. All that's needed to make them happen is sufficient interest and a desire for experience.

The Veterans Upward bound Program has a talented and dedicated staff which deserves introduction. Nancy Cole, Paddy Grinstein, and Victor Meyers comprise the innovative instructional staff; Rick Turner provides extensive personalized counseling, as well as college orientation and placement; the program is held together administratively by Cathy Cohn, the Program's secretary, and Wayne Purnell, the Program's director.

Veterans Upward Bound operates daily, Monday through Friday, from 8:30 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at the Monterey Peninsula College Veteran's Center, 1760 Fremont Blvd., Seaside, in the Olympia Plaza Shopping Center. Visits to the program by veterans, or anyone interested are welcome. The people are friendly and the classes are informal and interesting.

Seaside Poet's Work Published

Seaside is the proud possessor of a Poet Extraordinaire in the person of lovely Paula Darlene Evertsberg, the daughter of Mr and Mrs. Paul Evertsberg of Seaside.

Paul's poem has been selected to be published in the Annual Anthology of College Poetry which will be coming out in the very near future.

She became a professional entertainer at the tender age of 3 when she was known as the third member of the "Powdy Family Clowns". She was known as "Puffy The Clown". The Evertsbergs are nationally known as the Powdy Family of Clowns, and have captivated audiences throughout the nation. Among the houses they have appeared in is Harold's Club, where they stayed for three years as the House Clowns.

A student at M.P.C., Paula entered her poetry in a contest, and it was chosen by a board of judges of the National Poetry Press to be aired in their publication.

Well Echoes

I come as one who thrives on my dreams
And worships them like invaluable coins.
I throw them into my wishing well heart
And hope that they float and not drown.
I'm told that my wishes may carry too much weight,
But that's better than their chances being too slim.
They'll never get tired and they'll never lose faith,
For I have taught them how to swim.
I know that my desires still patiently wait
For magic to grant their freedom
And I know that the day will soon arrive
When my dreams are no longer suppressed in my mind.
From my heart come the sounds of wishing well echoes
That enable me to see through the limpid water
The tangible images rising slowly
And surrounding my life.

Influenza Vaccine Available At No Cost

Influenza vaccine will now be available at no cost for persons of all ages, who have chronic diseases including those of the heart; lungs, such as asthma and emphysema; bronchial tubes; kidneys; and metabolic disorders, such as diabetes, at the Monterey County Health Department as the result of a revision of guidelines from the State Health Department. The clinics will be held at 1200 Aguajito Road, Monterey, every Monday, 1:00 to 3:30 p.m.; and at 1270 Natividad Road, Salinas, every Monday, 8:15 to 10:30 a.m.

This year, with the new improved bivalent vaccine, only one shot is required, whether it is a first injection or a booster. The same 1974 vaccine is produced by all manufacturers and is effective against the current strains of the disease. This purified vaccine reduces the occasional minor reactions previously encountered. Persons with a history of sensitivity to eggs or egg products, chicken or chicken feathers will need to discuss the advisability of obtaining the vaccine with their physicians. The vaccine can be given until the first flue cases are reported, but interested persons are advised to obtain the vaccine as soon as possible.

For further information, call the County Health Department at 373-0111 or 424-7627.

College Students Give Monterey Assemblyman 100% Voting Record

The California State Universities and College Student Presidents' Association recently announced that Assemblyman Bob Wood (R-Monterey County) had been given 100 percent voting record on selected issues of importance to over 300,000 students in higher education.

The release stated only one Senator and five Assemblymen achieved that record. The issues range from such crucial items as financial aids, student control over their own affairs, funds for operating campus child development centers and available services for handicapped students.

Assemblyman Wood said, "this perfect rating by the Student Presidents' Association is a great honor to me," and went on to say, "I only hope the votes recorded will help guarantee the best use of our education dollar.

Assemblyman Bob Wood will officially be leaving the legislature on December 1 at which time both Assemblymen Bob Nimmo and Frank Murphy will take over Monterey County, which has been represented by Wood for the last six years.

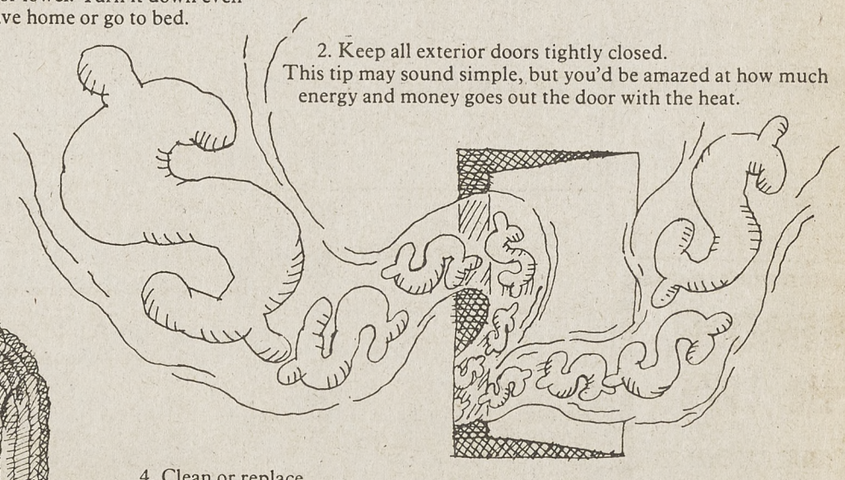
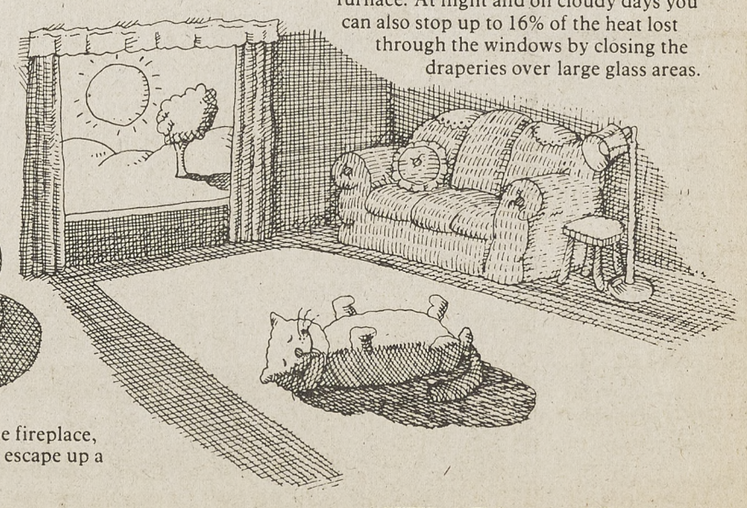
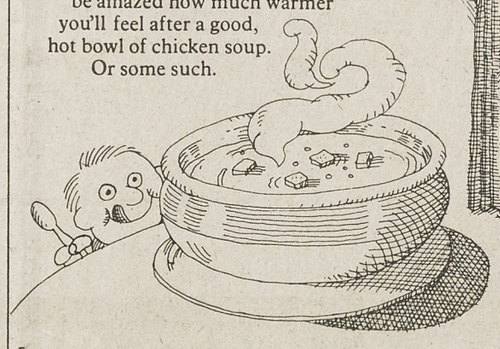
7 WAYS TO KEEP WARMER, CHEAPER.
Because our costs for fuel have gone up, your fuel costs are higher this winter than last, too. But even with increased rates, you can still hold down your heating costs by decreasing your energy usage. Here are some practical "here's hows."
1. Set your furnace thermostat to a temperature of 68° or lower. Turn it down even more when you leave home or go to bed.
2. Keep all exterior doors tightly closed. This tip may sound simple, but you'd be amazed at how much energy and money goes out the door with the heat.


3. Drag out Aunt Lucy's homemade sweater. Remember the cable knit you thought was really knit out of cables? It can actually help at lower thermostat settings.

4. Clean or replace those dirty filters that make the furnace work harder than necessary to heat your home.
5. Open your draperies on sunny days. Let Mother Nature do the work for your furnace. At night and on cloudy days you can also stop up to 16% of the heat lost through the windows by closing the draperies over large glass areas.


6. Indulge your taste for "hotter" foods. You'll be amazed how much warmer you'll feel after a good, hot bowl of chicken soup. Or some such.


7. When you're not using the fireplace, close the damper. Why let your heat escape up a flue that can't appreciate it?

Army's Sailors Have Career Door Opened

Anybody who ends up as a sailor in TODAY's army has to figure that the odds are stacked against him. But the Army's navy has it better. May a lot of people might expect.

The Army Transportation School, headquartered at Ft. Eustis, VA., recently announced a cooperative agreement with the American Waterways Operators that should make even landlubbers take note.

The school's industry accreditation office will serve as a contact between transportation executives and discharged soldiers in an effort to place the former GIs in jobs related to their Army experience. The AWO will advise the school on employment criteria, academic needs and similar topics.

Volunteers enlist, under the program, to be marine operators, engineers or hull repairmen. After basic training, the servicemen receive advanced training at Ft. Eustis and then are assigned to Army vessels.

After three months of sea-duty, trainees are eligible for the basic Army Marine license. Additional class work and on the job training lead to the regular Army Marine license. After about three years of service, individuals will be ready to try for the U.S. Coast Guard license. Should the volunteer decide to return to civilian life, the Army and the transportation executives will cooperate in an effort to find him a job.

If any of our readers are interested in this program or any others that we have to offer, please call us at 372-4742 in Monterey or stop by our office at 431 Webster St.

At this time it gives me great pleasure to welcome our latest additions to the ever growing family of TODAY'S ARMY. Twelve more peninsulans joined our ranks recently. They are: from Monterey: Robert J. Huntley, Rhea M. Barrick and Frank A. Jantzer. Seaside was represented by George A. Jones.
